Counter Terrorism Outreach: Security Awareness Programs

IMO's Guide to Maritime Security - Resources

Appendix 1.3 – Websites showing Security Awareness Programs

1. America's Waterway Watch Program is a nationwide initiative that asks its members to report suspicious activity around maritime locations to local law enforcement agencies. The website for additional information is: www.americaswaterwaywatch.us/
2. Project Kraken is a regional initiative in the UK that asks local residents and maritime stakeholders to report suspicious activity around maritime locations to the local police force. The website for additional information is: www.hampshire.police.uk/Internet/advice/kraken/
3. The Maritime and Port Authority of Singapore has produced a tri-lingual Harbour Craft Security Code poster which can be viewed at: www.mpa.gov.sg/sites/circulars_and_notices/pdfs/maritime_security_notices/pc04-18.pdf
4. The International Merchant Marine Registry of Belize has developed a set of maritime security guidelines for shipping companies which use the registry as well as a wide range of security practitioners. The 34 page document summarizes the maritime security framework in Belize; outlines the respective responsibilities of the national authority and shipping companies for implementing the Maritime Security Measures; and provides guidance on the measures to be considered in response to threats to ships and other incidents at sea. The website can be accessed at: www.immarbe.com/maritimesecurity.html

Counter Terrorism and Public Outreach Programs An Overview

America's Waterway Watch

With more than –

- 95,000 miles of shoreline
- 300,000 square miles of water*
- Countless homes, businesses, bridges, terminals, and other critical infrastructure located near the water
- Security is a job the U.S. Coast Guard and local first responders can't do alone.

Success Story

Sayed Abdul Malike

- The investigation of Malike began in late March, 2003 after a Queens store owner told police that the suspect sought information on making a bomb
- Malike later traveled to Miami. He boarded a tourist ship for a sightseeing trip around the port. While videotaping the bridges they passed, he asked the Captain of the ship "about the infrastructure of bridges ... and about how close the boat could get to the bridges and cruise ships," After witnessing this unusual activity, the captain got his first mate to take the helm and immediately called 1-877-24-WATCH.
- Malike was arrested in NY attempting to purchase large amounts of explosives.
