PARTICIPANTS

National Port Authorities of the CIP/OAS Member States, CIP Associate Members, presidents and executive directors of ports in the region, experts and specialists from the public and private sectors related to port-city relations, social responsibility and gender equity.

ABOUT

The Seminar, organized by the National Port Authority (APN) of Peru and the Secretariat of the Inter-American Committee on Ports (CIP) of the Organization of American States (OAS) will provide an international platform for public-private port dialogue in which decision-makers from government, the private sector and civil society will share successful practices and strategic actions on social responsibility and gender equality.

Preliminary topics include:

- Strategies for integrated development through social responsibility in the maritime-port sector.
- Challenges of change in port cities
- Port employment and better working conditions from a gender perspective
- Advances for Women's Participation in the Maritime-Port Sector
- Port Legislation as a Key Tool for Port Social Responsibility

The Seminar will also include a Port Roundtable, where representatives from various ports in the region will share successful cases of Port-City relation.
